GERMANY NOW SEEKS ARMISTICE AND PEACE

WILSON'S TERMS ARE ACCEPTABLE TO HUNS

New Imperial Chancellor Asks President to Take Up Question Of Bringing About General Peace

AMERICA MAY CONSIDER

As Washington Has Not Received Communication, No Official Statement Is Made of United States Attitude Toward Offer

(By the Associated Press.)

Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 6.—Prince Maximilian, of Baden, the new German imperial chancellor, announced in the Reichstag yesterday that he had sent a note through the Swiss government to President Wilson, in which he had requested Mr. Wilson to take up the question of the bringing about of peace and to communicate with the other belligerents regarding the subject.

The chancellor told the Reichstag he had addressed his note to the President of the United States because Mr. Wilson in his message to congress on January 8, 1918, and in his later proclamations, particularly his New York speech on September 27, had proposed a program for a general peace which Germany and her allies could accept as a basis for negotiations.

Washington, D. C. Oct. 6.—Germany's new peace offer proposing an armistice while President Wilson considers and conveys to the Allies a proposal on the basis of terms laid down by the President himself has not reached Washington in official form tonight and there was, therefore, no authorized statement of how it was regarded by the United States.

German Statesmen in Desperation.

Plainly, however, it was recognized as the first step in the continuing efforts of the German statesmen to save something from their dream of world domination.

It hardly is taking a position in advance of the American government to say that if the present position signifies Germany's unqualified acceptance of the 14 principles of peace laid down by President Wilson in his Fourth-of-July speech at the tomb of Washington, it would be considered. If it does not, if it be an acceptance "in principle" with saving diplomatic language paving the way for quibbling around a council table, it will not be considered.

These terms, accepted by all the Allies as their own, the President compressed into a single sentence: "A reign of law, based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind."

League of Nations Essential.

They provide for the destruction, or reduction to vital impotence of any arbitrary power capable of disturbing the peace of the world; the settlement of every question on the basis of the interest of the people concerned; and in effect a league of nations to enforce peace.

If in the offer of Prince Maximilian, the new imperial German chancellor, Germany is willing to accept these terms, the remainder of the world is satisfied that he speaks not alone but with the military masters of Germany in acquiescence, the next logical step would be the withdrawal of every German soldier from every foot of occupied territory. From that point, the Allies might begin to test the sincerity of Germany's willingness to conform to the world peace preserving program. No one in Washington even as much as gives thought to any proposal that the victorious troops of Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States should halt in any armistice while a "discussion" is conducted.

Time to Hit Germany Hard.

When Austria proposed a peace negotiation, the official view was summed up this way:

"Austria is breaking: that is the time to hit her hardest, not the time to talk peace."

There is nothing to indicate that the view has been changed.

Germany herself is participating formally now for the first time in an open and direct proposal. The move is believed to mark the beginning of the last phase of the effort to substitute diplomatic discussions for military operations before the Allied and American armies cross the Rhine and give German soil a taste of what has happened in Belgium and Northern France.

The proposal even may be a little more specific than officials of the American government had expected as a sequel to President Wilson's flat rejection of Austria's request for secret and non-binding discussions, but apparently no one here is ready to conclude that the kaiser's government has reached the point where it will accept without more fighting the only terms upon which their armies are willing to lay down their arms.

The kaiser's address to the German army and navy announcing the peace offer probably attracted more attention here than the offer itself. In spite of his arrogant tone, it was realized that this was the nearest thing to a renunciation of sabre-rattling that ever has come from him. His admission that the Macedonian fronts have "crumbled" was looked upon as significant, and even this declaration that "our front" will not be broken was called singularly modest from such a source.

Paris Turns to Wilson.

Paris, France, Oct. 6.—All eyes in France today are turned toward America—to Washington and Wilson.

"What will President Wilson's reply be?" the people are asking and wondering, now that they know that the Central Empires, particularly Germany, are seeking the cessation of hostilities and peace through the President of the United States.

The feeling is general that the Central Empires, bent on the greatest gamble of all times, have attempted to bring about by one stroke the termination of their losing game by trying to seek the good offices of President Wilson as intermediary.

Kaiser Tells Army And Navy Of His Peace Plan

Berlin, Germany, via Basel, Switzerland, Oct. 6. — Emperor William today issued a proclamation to the German army and navy in which, after announcing that the Macedonian front had crumbled, declared that he had decided, in accordance with his allies, to again offer peace to the enemy.

The text of the Emperor's proclamation reads:

Defending Fatherland Is Hard Task.

"For months past the enemy with enormous exertions and almost without pause in the fighting has stormed against your lines. In weeks of the struggle, often without repose, you have had to preserve and resist a numerically far-superior enemy. Therein lies the greatness of the task which has been set for you and which you are fulfilling. Troops of all the German states are doing their part and are heroically defending the Fatherland on foreign soil. Hard is the task.

"My navy is holding its own against the united enemy naval forces and is unwaveringly supporting the army in its difficult struggle.

"The eyes of those at home rest with pride and admiration on the deeds of the army and navy. I express to you the thanks of myself and the Fatherland.

"The collapse of the Macedonian front has occurred in the midst of the hardest struggle. In accord with our allies, I have resolved once more to offer peace to the enemy, but I will only extend my hand for an honorable peace. We owe that to the heroes who have laid down their lives for the Fatherland, and we make that our duty to our children.

"Must Exert All Our Strength."

"Whether arms will be lowered still is a question. Until then we must not slacken. We must, as hitherto, exert all our strength unwaveringly to hold our ground against the onslaughts of our enemies.

"The hour is grave but, trusting in your strength and in God's gracious help, we feel ourselves to be strong enough to defend our beloved Fatherland.

(Signed) "Wilhelm."

TEXT OF CHANCELLOR'S SPEECH

(By the Associated Press.)

Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 6.—The text of the address of Prince Maximilian of Baden, the new imperial chancellor of Germany, outlining his policy to the Reichstag yesterday, follows:

"In accordance with the imperial decrees of September 30, the German Empire has undergone a basic alteration of its political leadership.

"As successor to Count George von Hertling, whose services in behalf of the fatherland deserves the highest acknowledgement, I have been summoned by the emperor to lead the government.

"In accordance with the government methods now introduced, I submit to the Reichstag publicly and without delay the principles upon which I propose to conduct the grave responsibilities of the office.

"These principles were firmly established by the agreement of the federated government and the leaders of the majority parties in this honorable house before I decided to assume the duties of chancellor. They contain, therefore, not only my own confession of political faith, but that of an overwhelming portion of the German people's representatives, that is, of the German nation which has constituted the Reichstag on the basis of a general, equal and secret franchise and according to their will. Only the fact that I know the conviction and will of the majority of the people are back of me has given me strength to take upon myself the conduct of the empire's affairs in this hard and earnest time in which we are living.

One Man Cannot Conduct Government.

"One man's shoulders would be too weak to carry along the tremendous responsibility which falls upon the government at present. Only if the people take active part, in the broadest sense of the word, in deciding their destinies; in other words, if responsibility also extends to the majority of their freely elected political leaders, can the leading statesman confidently assume his part of the responsibility in the service of folks and fatherland.

"My resolve to do this has been especially lightened for me by the fact that prominent leaders of the laboring class have found a way in the government to the highest offices of the empire. I see therein a sure guarantee that the new government will be supported by the firm confidence of the broad masses of the people without whose true support the whole undertaking would be condemned to failure in advance. Hence, what I say today I say is not only in my name and those of my official helpers, but in the name of the German people.

"The program of the majority parties upon which I take my stand contains, first, an acceptance of the answer of the former imperial government to Pope Benedict's note of August 1, 1916, and an unconditional acceptance of the Reichstag resolution of July 19, the same year." It further declares willingness to join a general league of nations based on the foundation of equal rights for all, both strong and weak.

Discusses Belgian Question.

"It considers this resolution of the Belgian question to lie in the complete rehabilitation (wiederherstelling) of Belgium, particularly of its independence and territorial integrity. An effort shall also be made to reach an understanding on the question of indemnities.

"The program will not permit the peace treaties hitherto concluded to be a hindrance to the conclusion of a general peace.

"Its particular aim is that the population's representative bodies shall be formed immediately on a broad basis in the Baltic provinces in Lithuania and Poland. We will promote the realization of necessary preliminary conditions therefore without delay by the introduction of civilian rule. All these lands shall regulate their constitution and their relations with neighboring people without external interference.

"In the matter of international policies, I have taken a clear stand through the matter in which the formation of the government was brought about. Upon my motion, leaders of the majority parties were summoned for direct advice. It was my conviction, gentlemen, that unity of imperial leadership should be assured not only through mere party allegiance, but the different members of the government. I consider also still more important the unity of ideals. I proceeded from this viewpoint, and have, in making my selections, laid greatest weight on the fact that the members of the new imperial government stand on a basis of a just peace of justice, regardless of the war situation, and that they have openly declared this to be their standpoint at the time when we stood at the height of our military successes.

Reichstag Must Rule Supreme.

"I am convinced that the manner in which the imperial leadership is now constituted with co-operation of the reichstag is not something ephemeral, and that when peace comes a government cannot again be formed which does not find support in the reichstag and does not draw its leaders therefrom.

"The war has conducted us beyond the old multifarious and disrupted party life which made it so difficult to put into execution a uniform and decisive political wish. The formation of a majority means the formation of a political will, and an indisputable result of the war has been that in Germany for the first time, great parties have joined together in a firm, harmonious program and have thus come into position to determine for themselves the fate of the people.

"This thought will never die. This development will never be retracted (applause) and I trust that so long as Germany's fate is ringed about by dangers, those sections of the people outside the majority parties and whose representatives do not belong to the government will put aside all that separates us and will give the Fatherland what is the Fatherland's.

"This development necessitates an alteration of our constitution's provisions along the lines of the imperial decrees of Sept. 3, which shall make it possible that those members of the reichstag who enter the government will retain their seats in the reichstag. A bill to this end has been submitted to the federal states and will immediately be made the object of their consideration and decision.

Emperor William Quoted.

"Gentlemen, let us remember the words spoken by the Emperor on August 4, 1914, which I permitted myself to paraphrase last December at Karlsruhe: 'There are, in fact, parties, but they are all German parties.' (Applause.)

"Political developments in Prussia, the political German federal state, must proceed in the state of these words of the emperor, and the message of the king of Prussia promising the democratic franchise must be fulfilled quickly and completely. (Applause.) I do not doubt, also, that those federal states which still lag behind in the development of their constitutional conditions will resolutely follow Prussia's example. (Applause.)

"For the present, as the example of all belligerent states demonstrates, the extraordinary power which a condition of siege compels cannot be dispensed with, but close relations between the military and civilian authorities must be established which will make it possible that in all not purely military questions and hence especially as to censorship and right of assemblage, the attitude of the civilian executive authorities shall make itself heard and that final decisions shall be placed under the chancellor's responsibility. (Applause.)

New German Epoch Begins.

"To this end, the order of the Emperor will be sent to the military commanders. With Sept. 30, the day of the decree, began a new epoch in Germany's internal history. The internal policy whose basic principles are therein laid down is of deciding importance on the question of peace or war.

"The striking force which the government has in its strivings for peace depends on whether it has behind it the united, firm and unshakable will of the people. Only when our enemies feel that the German people stand united back of their chosen leaders—then only can words become deeds. (Applause.)

"At the peace negotiations the German government will use its efforts to the end that the treaties shall contain provisions concerning the protection of labor and insurance of laborers, which provisions shall oblige the treaty making states to institute in their respective lands within a prescribed time a minimum of similar, or at least equally efficient institutions, for the security of life and health and for the care of laborers in the case of illness, accident or invalidism.

"Of direct importance are the conclusions which the government in the brief span of its existence has been able to draw from the situation in which it finds itself and to apply practically to the situation. More than four years of bloodiest struggle against a world of numerically superior enemies are behind us, years full of the hardest battles and most painful sacrifices. Nevertheless, we are of strong heart and full of confident faith in our strength, resolved to bear still heavier sacrifices for our honor and freedom and for the happiness of our posterity, if it cannot be otherwise. (applause.)

"We remember with deep and warm gratitude our brave troops, who, under splendid leadership, have accomplished almost superhuman deeds throughout the whole war and whose past deeds are a sure guarantee that the fate of us all will also in future be in good dependable hands in their keeping. For month, a continuous, terrible and murderous battle has been raging in the west. Thanks to the incomparable heroism of our army, which will live as an immortal, glorious page in the history of the German people for all times, the front is unbroken.

Looks to Future With Confidence.

"This proud consciousness permits us to look to the future with confidence. But, just because we are inspired by this feeling and the conviction that it is also our duty to make certain that the bloody struggle be not protracted for a single day, beyond the moment when a close of the war seems possible to us which does not affect our honor, I have, therefore, not waited until today to take a step to further the idea of peace.

"Suported by the consent of all duly authorized persons in the empire, and by consent of all our allies acting in concert with us, I sent on the night of October 4—5—through the medium of Switzerland, a note to the President of the United States, in which I requested him to take up the bringing about of peace and to communicate to this and with all the belligerent states.

"The note will reach Washington today or tomorrow. It is directed to the President of the United States because he in his message to congress January 4-8, 1918, and in his later proclamations, particularly in his New York speech of September 27, proposed a program for a general peace, which we can accept for a basis for negotiations.

"I have taken this step not only for the salvation of Germany and its allies, but for all humanity, which has been suffering for years through the war.

Germany Agrees to Wilson's Ideas.

"I have taken it also because I believe the thoughts regarding the future well being of the nation which were proclaimed by Mr. Wilson are in accordance with the general ideas cherished by the German government and with it the overwhelming majority of our people.

"So far as I am personally concerned, in earlier speeches to other assemblages, my hearers will testify that the conception which I hold of a future peace has undergone no change since I was entrusted with the leadership of the empire's affairs.

(Section missing.)

"I see, hence, no distinction whatever between the national and international mandates of duty in respect of peace. For me, the deciding factor is solely that all participants shall with equal honesty acknowledge these mandates as binding and respect them as is the case with me and with the other members of our new government. And, so with an honest peace, which my clear conscience as a man and as a servant of the people give me, and which rests at the same time upon firm faith in this great and true people, this people capable of every devotion, and upon this glorious armed power, I await the outcome of the first action which I have taken as the leading statesman of the empire.

Germany Has Two Alternatives.

"Whatever this outcome may be I know it will find Germany firmly resolved and united either for an upright peace, which rejects every selfish violation of the rights of others or for a closing of the struggle for life and death to which our people would be forced without our own fault if an answer to our note to the powers opposed to us should be dictated by a will to destroy us.

"I do not despair over the thought that this second alternative may come. I know the greatness of the mighty powers yet possessed by our people, and I know that the incontrovertible convictions that they were only fighting for our life as a nation would double these powers (applause.)

"I hope, however, for the sake of all mankind that the President of the United States will conceive our offer as we mean it. Then the door would be open to a speedy, honorable peace of justice and reconciliation for us as well as for our opponents."

HUNS EVERYWHERE ARE GIVING GROUND

While Central Powers Clammor For Peace, Allies and Yanks Use "Force to the Utmost" to Cross the Rhine

ITALIANS BEGIN BIG DRIVE

Objectives Are LaFere and Laon—Douai Almost Enveloped By the British, Who Further Endanger Cambrai

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the British admiralty and the members of the admiralty board arrived tonight at an Atlantic port and will come to Washington tomorrow to confer with government officials.

(By the Associated Press.)

While Germany and Austria-Hungary are clammoring for peace, the Entente Allied governments thus far are paying scant heed to the proposals, but their armies are pressing forward to further victories on all fronts.

Officially, no cognizance has yet been taken of the request of Prince Maximilian, of Baden, the new German chancellor, or that of the Austro-Hungarian government for an armistice on land and sea, and in the air, and the commencement of peace negotiations, for President Wilson to whom the dual and highly similar proposals are addressed, is not yet in receipt of them.

Unofficial opinion, however, indicates that the request will fall upon deaf ears and that no peace is possible for the Teutonic Allies except through unconditional surrender and acceptance to the full of the terms President Wilson has enunciated.

Germans Give Ground Everywhere.

On the battle fronts the Germans are being forced to give ground to the Allied troops. In Belgium the enemy is gradually being pushed eastward, and in anticipation of a forced final withdrawal, is continuing to make ready for that eventuality by moving his guns and otherwise lessening the value of his defensive works in the territory upon and adjacent to the North sea coast.

To the south from Arras to Verdun, the Germans are being hard pressed by the British, American, Italian and French forces and, although on numerous sectors they still are offering desperate resistance, they seemingly are unable to do more than retard the advance of their foes.

Douai Almost Enveloped.

Douai, south of Lens, is almost enveloped and Cambrai has been further endangered through the capture of the village of Aubencheul-aux-Bois, five miles to the southeast, where more than 1,000 Germans were made prisoner. Hard fighting has taken place around Mont Brehain and Beaurevoir in this immediate vicinity, where the Germans have brought up fresh reserves in an endeavor to keep Field Marshal Haig's men from cutting the highly important St. Quentin—Le-Cateau road, from which they now are but a step. Both Beaurevoir and Mont Brehain are now in British hands.

With the Germans being defeated over wide areas by the French and Americans from Rheims to the Argonne forest, the Italians south of Laon have begun an offensive which seemingly has as its objective the finishing of the work previously begun by the French for the obliteration of LaFere and Laon. Here they have captured in storming operations important and strongly held German positions. In the vicinity of Laon conflagrations are to be seen and it seems not improbable that the Germans are preparing for a withdrawal in consequence of the converging movement which is being pressed against them from three sides.

French and Americans Press Forward.

Through the latest operations of the French around Rheims, the Cathedral City seems definitely liberated from the German menace, for there they have materially pressed the enemy. Likewise, eastward through Champagne to the Argonne forest the French and Americans have fought their way forward in titanic struggles, capturing numerous towns, crossing the Aisne canal and pursuing the enemy along the entire front of the Suippe and Arnes rivers, both of which have been crossed and at several points.

In the Macedonian theatres the Allied troops have compelled the Austrians to withdraw from the Di Bazan sector and other positions, while near Vranje, Central Serbia, the French and Serbian troops have captured Austro-German held positions. In the latter region the enemy is retiring northward in disorder.

Germans with Bulgarians Withdrawn.

Berlin, Germany, via London, England, Oct. 6. — German troops which have been fighting in the ranks of the Bulgarian army have been withdrawn and are now marching back toward their headquarters, says the official statement issued today by the German general army headquarters.

Tanks Continue Strong Attacks.

Berlin, Germany, Oct. 6. — American forces yesterday continued their strong attacks east of Exermont, between the Argonne and the Meuse rivers, says today's German official statement. The Americans were successful in pushing forward as far as the wooded heights about one kilometer north of that place.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6. — General Pershing reported tonight that the American attack west of the Meuse continued today and met with determined resistance by artillery and machine guns which were entrenched. Strong enemy counter attacks were repulsed.

Pershing's Men Advance Slightly.

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 6, 10:30 p. m. — The Americans advanced slightly at some points today. There has been stubborn infantry fighting between the Meuse and the Ogons wood, and further west the machine gun and artillery combats have been constant and heavy. There was increased artillery fire on both sides everywhere along the line.

"CITIZEN" MCADOO GOOD BOND SALESMAN

Trudging in the Rain Sunday, He Sells $20,000 Worth to President Wilson

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6. — From door to door William G. McAdoo trudged in the rain today, selling Liberty bonds.

It was not the secretary of the treasury, but Mr. McAdoo, citizen, member of a canvassing team, who gathered a pocketful of signed pledge cards from Washington residents, including President Wilson, a negro maid, an Armenian grocer, a score of women war workers, a janitor, and a millionaire or two. In a middle class neighborhood to which his team was assigned, Mr. McAdoo got the most subscriptions, and those which made him comment when his work was done:

"It's a cinch to raise billions when folks come across like that. Plenty of people have money to lend the government, just waiting for the opportunity."

Later in the day, after an hour and a half of tramping about, Mr McAdoo and his working partners counted up the total. They had a little less than $1,000,000 in pledges.

Later, a round million was subscribed by Bernard Baruch, chairman of the War Industries board, into whose house Mr. McAdoo dropped on his way home. One pledge for $20,000 bore the signature of Woodrow Wilson, payable on a ten-month installment plan.

The plan to sell to the President had not been arranged in advance. On leaving his home, Mr. McAdoo directed the solicitor car to go to the White House. He found the President preparing for a drive with Mrs. Wilson and although Mr. Wilson already had subscribed for $10,000 he agreed to buy $20,000 more, adding:

"But I haven't any money just now. You'll have to take this on the installment plan."

Thereupon, the card was signed, with designation that payment was to be made ten per cent in cash and ten per cent a month arranged through a bank.

THINK 94 DIED IN BIG MUNITION PLANT DISASTER

After 42 Hours of Fire and Explosions, Hunt For Victims Starts

36 BODIES RECOVERED

Estimate That Number of Injured Will Reach At Least 150

TO REBUILD FACTORIES AT ONCE

Inspection Party Endeavors to Establish Cause of Terrible New Jersey Catastrophe

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 6.—Army officers decided today that the danger of further devastation of the great shell loading plant of the T. A. Gillespie company at Morgan by the blowing up of many more tons of trinitrotoluol (TNT) stored there in magazines and warehouses has virtually ended and this afternoon, after nearly 42 hours of explosions and fire, the work of recovering and identifying the dead was begun.

In a report sent to Washington tonight, the military authorities increased their estimates of the killed from 50 to 94. The number of injured, it was said, would not be less than 150.

Only Five Bodies Identified.

Of the 35 bodies which tonight had been taken from the debris and brought here, only five have been identified. One was that of Roy E. Hickerson, son of William H. Hickerson, a New York furniture manufacturer, who recently retired from his father's business to enter upon war work as inspector at the Gillespie plant. He was killed a few hours after he reported at Morgan.

Additional difficulty in establishing the identity of the missing was presented today when the employment manager of the plant stated that although the steel cabinet in which the list of employes was filed had not been greatly damaged, scraps of burned paper indicated that the list itself had been consumed by the flames. It was reported however, from another source, that all the company's records had been removed by soldiers from the administration building and taken to Sandy Hook.

Reconstruct Plant at Once.

Not a moment, it was announced tonight, would be lost in reconstructing the plant.

The military authorities have ordered that refugees from Perth Amboy be allowed to return to their homes, but residents of South Amboy are being held in the town which offers them shelter.

Early this morning marines and coast guards made an inspection and the plant before any searching or official inspection parties were allowed to enter the shell-stricken area.

It was reported that only four of the 13 units were standing. These four, situated on the opposite side of the Cheesequake creek to the fire, had just been completed and had not yet been put into use. The magazines and storehouses were untouched and four barges, loaded with high explosives and moored in the creek, were said to be out of danger.

Aviators Avert Worse Disaster.

It was learned that a worse disaster was averted by the action of Major H. L. Armstrong and Captain W. W. Watson, army aviators, who dropped bombs from an airplane onto the banks of the creek, opening a channel through which water poured out, flooding the magazines.

The scene at the army plant was a replica of No Man's land. Where buildings once stood remained only twisted iron. Great trees were uprooted or cut down by shells. Telegraph poles had been pierced as many as four times by the flying missles and resembled grotesque flutes stuck into the ground. Strands of wire lay in the ditches and by the roadside were great trucks and automobiles, battered or burned.

To Establish Cause of Disaster.

Later bodies were removed in Red Cross ambulances when the ruins had cooled. In the afternoon an inspection party, including Colonel Spruance of the ordnance department, the adjutant general of New Jersey, agents of the department of justice, and company officials made an inspection tour, seeking to establish the cause of the explosion. Tonight they held a long conference here, but declined to make any statement.

PHONE COMPANY COMPENSATED

New York, Oct. 6. — Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, announced tonight that after extended conferences between the representatives of Postmaster General Burleson and the company, "a just compensation" had been agreed upon for the supervision, control and operation of the system taken over under presidential proclamation.

Woman's Committee at Welcome.

Welcome, Oct. 6. — Mrs. Lizzie Thayer Talbut, chairman of the Woman's committee, has appointed the following ladies to canvass the town in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan: Miss Jennie Potter, Miss Geraldine Bundy, Mrs. Allen Brimmer and Mrs. F. B. Hickling.

EX-PRIVATE COMMANDS GREAT BRITISH DIVISION

First Men to Cross Hindenburg Line At St. Quentin Canal Exemplify Bravery

(By the Associated Press.)

With the American Army on the St. Quentin Sector, Oct. 6.—Among the English divisions which have made deep advances in this sector in the recent fighting is the 46th, commanded by a major general, who was a private in the South African war. It was this division which first crossed the Hindenburg line at St. Quentin canal, north of Bellenglise last Sunday.

The entire division attacked from a point 2,000 yards west of the canal and virtually annihilated all the Germans holding the first Hindenburg line there. Then, being unable to see 20 feet because of the dense fog, the soldiers followed the explosions of their barrage to the canal banks, where under the leadership of a brigadier general, already the winner of a Victoria cross, plunged into the water.

The opposite bank was lined with German machine guns. Some of the British wore life belts removed for the occasion from the "leave" boats plying between England and France, while other plunged boldly in and swam across through a perfect hail of bullets. Some went hand over hand across life lines. Only one man was drowned in the whole operation.

Once on the other bank, the men of this North Midlands division immediately plunged into the fighting, fought their way up the slippery canal banks, went over the enemy parapets, and finished off hundreds in every section with bayonets and rifles and pistols fired at point blank. The terrified Germans just a little bit further back saw the performance and ran for their lives.

During the operations of a single day, this division by its dash and quick fighting took 4,200 prisoners, 70 cannon, more than 1,000 machine guns and great quantities of war material.

YANK AVIATORS AGAIN TAKE GLORIOUS PART

Airmen Do Great Work Reconnoitering, Attacking Retreating Huns and Bringing Reports

(By the Associated Press.)

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 4, 9:30 p. m. — The American aviators again covered themselves with glory in today's drive. Dawn broke with mist heavy over the trenches and the country across which the Americans were to go, and it was hours before the weather cleared up sufficiently to permit of extended observation.

The splendid liaison that marked today's operations and which was nearly ideal under the circumstances, was due in great part to the daring work of the aviators in reconnoitering, attacking the retreating Germans, and bringing back reports. Seemingly inspired by the dare devilry of the American aviators, German fliers during the entire morning swooped low over the heads of the American infantry, using machine guns with telling effect until driven off.

Chiefly because of this daring, the German losses were unusually heavy. American anti-aircraft batteries accounted for seven machines, which they brought down at short range. Another German plane was downed by an American sentryman with an anti-tank gun which he had captured a few moments before.

FRANCE WARNS GERMANY.

Paris, France, Oct. 6.—The French government has issued a solemn warning to Germany and her allies that the devastation of territory from which they retreat will be punished inexorably.

The warning says the German people who share in the crimes will bear the consequences with the authors and that those who order the devastation will be held responsible morally and pecuniarily. It is added that France is discussing with her Allies the steps to be taken.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York Markets.

New York, Oct. 6. — Military and political developments in the eastern area of the war zone, coupled with the further successes of the Allied forces along the western front, constituted the governing influences of the past week in the securities market, infusing general heaviness to munition and ordnance shares.

There was a contrary movement of considerable proportions in shippings, motors, oils and half a score of less distinctive issues which are expected to benefit by a cessation of hostilities.

The course of United States Steel, which fluctuated in something like a four-point radius, was narrowly watched by traders, who regarded that issue as the barometer of general market conditions.

Steel contributed from 25 to 33 per cent to the moderately large daily turnover, its nearest rival in point of activity being Marine preferred, which made an extreme advance of seven points, finally forfeiting about three points.

Local money rates held at the long-prevailing six per cent for time and call funds, with the former at a maximum.

MILLIONS WELL GUARDED.

Iron Safe, Barred Windows and Armed Men for Motor Transfer of Money.

In the course of daily business it is necessary for banks to transfer large sums of money from their vaults to the vaults of other banks. More or less risk usually attends the transfer of specie in a city, the temptation to highwaymen being very strong.

Two Chicago banks and a transfer company have taken means to protect money in transit through city streets as thoroughly as it can be protected. On a motor car is mounted an omnibus body built on a special design. The driver is completely enclosed by glass doors and windows. Just back of the driver's seat is the entrance door for the main compartment, which is also completely enclosed, with glass windows and strong iron bars.

The chief piece of equipment in the main compartment is a large iron safe, in which the money is securely locked during each trip from bank to bank. But this is not all. Seats are so arranged for armed guards that the men sit facing the windows. They completely surround the safe with its treasure and at the same time have a clear view in all directions.

The car has just been put into use. Owing to the space required, the Dodge Brothers chassis on which the special body is mounted, was lengthened out by means of a well-known truck attachment. At a glance, the car much resembles an ordinary omnibus, close inspection being required to observe the iron window-bars, as it glides swiftly through the streets.

PLAN TRACTOR DEMONSTRATION

One to Be Given by Farm Bureau on McLaury Farm October 24.

The Otsego County Farm Bureau association will put on a tractor demonstration at the farm of D. W. McLaury, Milford, beginning promptly at 1 p. m. on Thursday, October 24. Because of existing labor shortage, many Otsego farmers are inquiring into the tractor situation more than ever before; and it is for this reason that President Frank M. Smith and other members of the bureau's executive committee, have determined to give farmers of the county an opportunity to see the different makes of machines, being sold here, operate side by side and under average Otsego conditions.

The companies which have already informed the County Agricultural Agent that they will be present with machines are the International Harvester company, Cleveland Tractor company, Case Threshing Machine company and the Fordson Tractor company.

Mr. McLaury's farm is centrally located on the state road between Cooperstown and Oneonta, about one mile south of Milford. Every Otsego county farmer, whose land is such that a tractor can operate upon it, should attend this demonstration. Two to six farmers might well consider the advisability of buying a tractor together in order to increase or even maintain their present production of food products.

FUNERAL OF JAMES CHASE.

Obsequies Held in Schenevus Baptist Church Sunday Morning.

Schenevus, Oct. 6. — Funeral services for the late James Chase were held in the Baptist church here this morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. C. H. Colegrove, pastor of the church, officiating. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives of the deceased. Rev. Colegrove referred to the exemplary life of Mr. Chase and paid a fitting tribute to his noble character. Members of the Baptist and Methodist choirs rendered appropriate selections, after which the body was taken from the church for interment in the village cemetery. The bearers were James Miller, Clair Miller, Richard Mead and E. C. Boardman.

Liberty Loan Rally.

The Metropolitan Troupe, composed of a 30-piece band, a grand opera soloist and Madam Vande Zonde, of Brussels, Belgium, will be present at the Liberty Loan Rally in Chase and Bennett's hall here Wednesday evening. This is a rare treat for Schenevus and there should be a full house and—we nearly forgot—buy a bond!

School for Voters.

The school for women voters will be held in Chase and Bennett's hall Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Instructions for new voters will be given. All women in and about Schenevus are urged to be present.

Mrs. Margaret Noxon Home.

Mrs. Margaret Noxon, who is a teacher in the public schools of Gloversville, is home for an indefinite vacation, due to the epidemic of Spanish influenza in Gloversville. All the schools in that city have been closed.

DELAWARE COUNTY NEWS

TWO SIDNEY SOLDIERS DIE

Influenza Claims John J. Dimicco and Frank D. Young

Sidney, Oct. 6.—John J. Dimicco, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dimicco, well known Sidney people, died at the Newport Naval training station hospital Friday afternoon. He enlisted in the navy at the Binghamton station about the middle of August and was called to the colors September 12. About one week after arriving at Newport he was taken ill with influenza which later developed into pneumonia. Several days ago his parents were called to Newport by a message stating that his condition was serious, later returning home as he showed considerable improvement. A message arrived Thursday stating that the disease had again taken a serious turn. His age was 21 years. He was a popular young man of this village and attended Sidney High school several years and the news of his death was sadly received by the many friends of the young man and his family. He is survived by his parents and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Martin Foy, of Binghamton; Dr. Frank Dimicco, of Olean; George of Binghamton and these at home: Theresa, Louise, Louie, Paula, Lenna and Virginia. As no notice has been received as to the shipment of the remains no arrangements for the funeral have been made at this writing.

Frank D. Young

Friday morning at Camp Merritt, N. J., occurred the death of Frank D. Young, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Young, of this village. His death was due to pneumonia following influenza. His age was 29 years. He was drafted into service going with a contingent from Susquehanna May 24. November 7, 1917, he was united in marriage to Alice Thompson who resides in Sidney. He is survived by his wife, parents, and one brother, Harvey B. Young, all of Sidney. His funeral will be held at his home here following the arrival of the body which is expected today. Interment will be in the soldier's plot in Prospect Hill cemetery.

Grand Loan Rally

A grand Liberty Loan rally will be held in Sidney, Tuesday. It will be assisted by Madame Van de Zande, who has spent four months in Brussels under German domination. An American soldier who was wounded in the fight at Chauteau Thierry will also speak. A feature of the meeting will be a band of 30 pieces, which will give a public concert. As the entire party will arrive in Sidney early in the day it is planned to hold two separate meetings.

Successful Teachers' Conference

A very successful conference of the teachers of the First Supervisory District of Delaware county was held at the school building, Thursday and Friday. Superintendent Vandegrift presided and is entitled to much credit for the success of the affair. He spent considerable effort in getting good talent for the speakers and all were enjoyed. Of the 78 teachers in the district all were present but two who were excused on account of illness. There was also a good attendance of Sidney people at the conference.

Woman's Liberty Loan Committee

The Sidney Woman's Liberty Loan Committee will commence active work in its campaign Tuesday. The women have been assigned about the entire village as their territory. The committee is as follows: Chairman, Mrs. E. O. Allen; Mrs. J. J. Klinkhammer, Mrs. J. L. Clark, Mrs. E. J. Johnson, Mrs. Clinton Taylor, Mrs. C. E. Bird, Mrs. Albert Golden Mrs. L. J. Fleming, Mrs. C. W. Reams, Mrs. W. W. Bates, Mrs. B. C. Fairbanks, Mrs. C. E. Patchen, Mrs. J. Henry Brady, Mrs. James Elliott, Mrs. G. A. Clark, Mrs. L. M. Day, Mrs. O. L. Gorham, Mrs. M. B. Cook, Mrs. J. E. Davis, Mrs. J. G. Simonson, Miss Anna Smith, Mrs. V. D. Keeler, Mrs. F. A. Bartley, Mrs. Margaret Myerholtz.

Will of Warren G. Willis.

The appellate division of the supreme court has denied the motion made by Attorneys Sewell & France of this village, representing the appellant, George Willis of Masonville, in the matter of the construction of the will of the late Warren G. Willis of Masonville. Alexander Neish esq., of Walton, was attorney for the respondents. The question in the case was whether the title vested at the death of Warren G. Willis or at the death of his wife, the life tenant of the property. The estate amounts to about $22,000 and had the will been set aside the estate would have gone to the heirs at law instead of the specific legatees named in the will. The estate will now be settled.

Called for Limited Service.

Friday the following men from the second district of Delaware county were sent to Fort Slocum, having been called for limited service: Fred Davison, Harold Mills, Sherman Shepard, Sidney; Ivan W. Scott, Beerston; William O. Washburn, Walton; George Berris, Walton.

FORMER DELHIAN A CHAPLAIN.

Rev. T. B. Anderson of Paul Smith's To Enter the Service.

Delhi, Oct. 6.—Rev. T. B. Anderson of Paul Smith's, has entered the service as a chaplain. His family is to live at Malone, while he is away. Both Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are former Delhians and both are graduates of Delaware academy. Mrs. Anderson is remembered here as Miss Bessie Graham, daughter of County Treasurer H. S. Graham.

Secure Building Permits.

The Delaware County Home Defense committee has charge of granting all building permits in the county. Whether permits will be required and this law strictly enforced in the county is for the county board to determine.

Harry Borthwick Receives Settlement.

Harry Borthwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Borthwick of this town, has received from the D. & H. railroad $8,000 in settlement for injuries sustained by him several months ago, when the milk truck which he was driving for the Wildi Evaporated Milk company was struck by a train at the Walnut street crossing of the railroad in Bainbridge. One of his legs was so crushed that it had to be amputated. His head was also severely cut and wounded.

Silk Mill Property on Market.

There is a rumor that the Delhi Silk mill property will soon be sold. Parties from out of town have been here looking it over. Should this be sold the Sheldon Rifles will be out of a place in which to drill. It has made an ideal place for that purpose.

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a genuine bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Southern New York Railway Seeks Increased Revenue

To the Public:-

Since the European Nations have been at war and especially since the United States entered the war, it has been difficult to operate electric railway properties on account of the great increase in operating expenses.

Materials required for the maintenance of this property, such as: Rails, Ties, Poles, Copper, Cars, etc., have increased 100 per cent and in many cases 200 per cent; wages have been and are being increased and have advanced beyond the earning power of the Company which means that an increase in rates is required to help pay same.

Ex-President, William Howard Taft and Mr. Frank P. Walsh, joint Chairmen of the National War Labor Board stated in a report dated August 2nd, to PRESIDENT WILSON:

"This is not a question turning the history of the relation of local street railways and municipalities in which they operate. The increase of fare must be given because of the imminent pressure for money receipts now to keep the street railways running so that they may meet the local and national demand for the service. In justice, the public should pay an adequate war compensation for a service which can not be rendered except for war prices."

This Company is unfortunate by reason of its operating through a sparsely settled community and for that reason the gross receipts do not increase, and are very small, comparing same with other electric railways in New York State.

A great many expenses such as renewal of ties, upkeep of cars, etc., are nearly as high as though we handled double the passengers.

During the past 5 years the Company has expended more than $450,000 for improving road bed, laying new rails, rebuilding cars, etc., and is now installing at the Hartwick Steam Plant a turbine driven generator which will cost over $50,000.

The Company is applying to the Public Service Commission for an increase in fares which increase is absolutely necessary now, not on account of paying dividends on stock but to pay for maintenance, improvements and wages. Nothing has ever been paid to the stockholders and very little to thebondholders.

The Company is doing all it can to provide good service and asks the co-operation of the public to assist in keeping its property in good operating condition.

REMEMBER BREST-LITVOSK.

Now that the so-called German peace offensive is definitely under way, with Austria the mouthpiece of the collective governments of the Huns, there is naturally considerable consideration of the overture, and in particular as to the good-faith or want of it with which it is made. The terms as indicated are definite enough, and if they are the last word of the German government as to concessions, then there is no reason for the Allies to give the least consideration. They are understood to be the retention of all its original territory by Germany, save Alsace-Lorraine, in which there is to be a plebiscite so that the people may decide, an open door for all nations industrially, no indemnities save that the great powers may internationally subscribe to the restoration of the smaller ones devastated by war, and the return of all German colonies. Along with these things are to go limitations of armaments, which in itself is a good thing.

This is the proposal of the German government, and in effect it offers nothing save the last condition which the Allies could accept. It holds in it no concessions which would not leave or make Germany the ruler of the world. It is the word of a confessed thief who will give back part of the swag, provided he is to be allowed to go in peace without punishment.

What this peace offensive amounts to can be best understood by the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, wherein Russia was humbled and as far as possible dismembered — a treaty which for more than a year set back the great peace for which the Allies are fighting. The new conference, if held in the Kingdom of Holland, would be held in a quasi-neutral country, it is true, but in one bounded on the land side by Germany and on the sea dominated by the German fleet. They would be most foolish Allies indeed who would consent to risk their statesmen and diplomats so near the mouth of the beast, or who would have any confidence in the pledged word of the German government relative to safe conduct.

The terms of peace at an earlier date set forth by President Wilson are the terms of peace which the Allies will consent to now. They are the only ones. If Germany desires to make peace on these terms, she must give satisfactory guarantees, which must be something more than her worthless word of honor. Until she does this the war should and doubtless will go on.

This is no time for the Hun to be allowed to raise his hands and cry "No play!"

OTSEGO COUNTY VERY DRY.

Town of Springfield Only Oasis in County Says the Farmer.

Otsego county became very dry October 1. The city of Oneonta and the towns of Otsego and Middlefield containing the village of Cooperstown once regarded as strongholds of the Demon Rum, together with Richfield and Maryland went into the dry column on that date, leaving Springfield and Cherry Valley the only towns of the county in which licenses permitting the sale of intoxicating liquor may be had.

In Cherry Valley the only license taken out was by Seth Pearson & Co., who made application for a druggist's license, the citizens of that place having decided that this will answer all the requirements. In Springfield hotel licenses have been granted Alfred Marshall, proprietor of the Central hotel, at Springfield Center, and Albert C. Heath of East Springfield. Charles Vosburgh of Salt Springville made application for a hotel license, but his application was not in due form and was returned by County Treasurer Johnson. It can be corrected. It is also said that Orville Vibbard, two miles south of Springfield, intends to take out a hotel license. Clark & Stephenson of Schuyler Lake have asked for blanks for a druggist's license. This constitutes the entire business in licenses transacted by the county treasurer and is a fair indication of the present status of Otsego county on the liquor question. It also locates the only real oasis of the county in the town of Springfield.—[Cooperstown Farmer.

Changes at Post Office.

Postmaster Beams finds that the labor situation is affecting the force at the local post office, although he anticipates no difficulty in keeping the positions filled and the force well organized. Walter Ross, one of the clerks, who is now on vacation, expects to retire October 16 and go to New York city, where he has accepted a position with a public accounting firm.

James May, recently employed as janitor, has resigned to accept a position at the D. & H. shops and Lysle Ellis, the engineer, also recently resigned. He has accepted a position with the Light and Power company. Both positions have been filled, the appointments, however, await official confirmation at Washington, D. C., before becoming permanent.

CURRENT COMMENT OF PRESS

The Extremes of Sunday

The extremes of that sort of Sunday, when every act that brought a measure of enjoyment or the benefit of harmless recreation was considered a sin, are gone never to return. But of late years the automobile has made Sunday even less of a day of rest than weekdays, and suddenly this is stopped.

So we return for a time to the old restful day our fathers, a day of quietness and meditation. And who knows that this cessation of the mad rush will not prove of inestimable benefit?—[Binghamton Republican.

Her Desire to Talk.

Austria's desire to talk is inextinguishable. "President Wilson's last speech," says the semiofficial Vienna news agency, "opens fresh ground for a peace discussion, which is the main thing." Austria-Hungary might talk it over with Bulgaria.—[Springfield Republic.

Stolen Resources Lost

Importance of the evacuation of Lens, by the Germans, cannot be overestimated. It is the center of a highly productive coal region. It was held when the previous retreat, to the Hindenburg line, was compelled. The British forces approached to within a quarter of a mile of it, but unsurmountable obstacles must have been encountered, for it remained in possession of the Germans.

Again, when the present allied offensive reached the sector whose line passed just west of Lens, there was pause there. Resistance must still have been stubborn. And now the Germans have gone. The loss of this source of coal supply, just when winter is coming is of course serious. That supply is again for France.

Soon the enemy should be dislodged also from the Briey region where there are rich iron mines. This expectation is not inflated optimism; it is based logically upon the course of events.

Loss of that region will cause further decrease of Germany's stolen resources.—[Albany Journal.

Glory of the Marines

Six thousand of the 8,000 marines who were at Chauteau-Thierry were either killed or wounded. This report made by Secretary Daniels justifies all that has been or can be said about the chivalry and bravery of the Marine corps. They were not only the "first to fight," but their fighting at Chateau-Thierry brought the turning point in this war.—[Chicago News.

No Slaker.

Too All-fired Sentimental.

The Hun, past master in the art of diabolical weapons of war, has not the stomach for the Yankee fowling piece.

Let him threaten and let the government tell Berlin that for every Yankee soldier on which German poison-hate wrecks vengeance we shall hang a hundred of the prisoners in Pershing's hands, and, moreover, that every submarine assassin caught violating the rules of cruiser warfare, will be strung from the yardarm.

That would be the just fate and reprisal for Teutonic terrorism and murder.

When the Germans wage warfare as the rules of the grim game direct, they should be told, then will the Germans taken in battle get treatment according to the rules of the game.

We have been too all-fired sentimental with the German war enemy.—[Scranton Times.

EIGHT AMERICAN CITIZENS.

Naturalization Papers Granted by Justice Kellogg

A special term of the supreme court ordered by the appellate division for the purpose of acting on various applications for citizenship by aliens residents in Otsego county, was held Saturday at chambers in Oneonta by Justice A. L. Kellogg. There were 19 applicants altogether of whom a considerable number were held over from the June term on account of the inability of a United States government attorney to reach Cooperstown at that time. Final papers were issued to eight of the number, and the others were held over to a latter term. Two of these however, are understood to be in the American army, and these under the present ruling will become citizens automatically without further action of the court.

The eight men admitted to citizenship are: Michele Barbaro of Otego, Toney Pandolfino of Cooperstown, Maurice J. Kroll, also known as Maurice J. Krutoka) of Oneonta, Poderia Anton of Richfield Springs, Christian Bramsen Laurits of Hartwick, John Williams of Oneonta, James Walter Hill of Springfield Center, Reginald A. Covell of Oneonta. Of these admitted three are English, three Italians, one a Dane and one a Russian.

Linen Shower a Success.

Gratifying has been the response to the call of the Red Cross for the linen shower which was necessitated by inability to fill the quota for the city in any other way, owing to lack of materials. The supply of napkins, handkerchiefs, etc., has been ample, it is believed, to assure the quota being filled. Of sheets, however, there is a shortage, which is due perhaps to the large size required and the lack of ability to secure other material. It is hoped by the committee in charge to find some way to fill the entire quota, even of sheets.

Training at Schenevus and Worcester.

All boys of 16, 17 and 18 years living in Schenevus will report at the Schenevus High school Tuesday afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 4:30. Boys living in Worcester meet at school building in that village Tuesday evening between 7 and 8:30.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT

Distinguished Hawaiian Pays Deserved Tribute to Hon. G. W. Fairchild

Since Congressman Fairchild of Oneonta voluntarily decided to retire from Congress he has received many letters from prominent men in various parts of the country expressing regret at his decision. The following from Robert W. Breckons, a leading lawyer of Honolulu, and a member of the Republican National Committee is typical of the letters Mr. Fairchild has been the recepient of and will doubtless prove of interest to the friends of our congressman.

September, 16, 1918.

Honorable George W. Fairchild,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Fairchild:—

Due to the splendid manner in which Political Master General Burleson has handled the mails, we got a big bunch of it on Saturday, after several boats, on which mail might have been carried, arrived here without any.

I have not yet had opportunity of even getting all of my mail, much less digesting it. I did, however, get hold of the New York Sun of August 24th, and, with mingled feelings of regret and pleasure, read your announcement that you would probably not be a candidate for reelection. I trust that my later reading will show that you have changed your mind. Certainly Uncle Sam would suffer a big loss should you no longer be in Congress. This is the ground for my regret.

Pleasure, that you remained in Washington and assisted in the making up of the revenue bill, putting your duty before your personal interests. Pleasure likewise that a Democratic official such as McAdoo went out of his way in a letter to pay you so high a tribute.

Again expressing the hope that you will still continue in Congress, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
R. W. Breckons.

Training at Laurens and Hartwick.

All boys of the ages of 16, 17 and 18, residing in the town of Laurens are to report at the school building at Laurens between the hours of 3 and 4 p. m. today. Boys residing in Hartwick township will report at the Hartwick school building between the hours of 7 and 8 this evening.

New Fall Fashions

Here beauty and quality are finely linked with economy in the new fall fashions for Women and Misses.

Timely and Important News in Millinery

We look for the first week in October to be our busiest days in millinery and we have prepared for it splendidly and generously. We have added trimmed hats from our own work rooms, new collections of ready-to-wear hats, and particularly those snappy simply trimmed practical hats.

Trimmed Hats, $5.00, 6.00, 8.00 and 9.00

Plain and Lyon's velvets, panne velvets, and beavers, ranging from the little close-fitting hat or soft crush tam, to the large drooping hats with their undulating brims. In black and all fashionable colors.

Feather Hats, $5.00, 6.50, 7.50, 8.00 and 9.00

Fashion puts wings and feathers to clever use. Some striking models are made entirely of feathers; some have feather crowns; some show wing brims; and others show wing trimming.

Ready-to-Wear Hats, $1.98, 2.50, 3.50, 5.00 and 5.90

Velour Sport Hats, $3.75, 4.50, 5.00 and 5.90

Displays of Coats, Suits, and Dresses are at High Tide Just Now

These are banner days for selection—everything is spick and span new, and so plentiful that, having made selection, one feels satisfied that a better choice could not have been made, as the market affords nothing better.

Practical Tailor Made Suits $19.00, $22.50, $25.00, $29.75.
Dressy Cloth Suits, $32.50, $37.50, $40.00, $47.50.

The Boys Have "Come Through" ---Have You?

The boys have "come through," as Americans always do at the Marne, Chateau Thierry, Seicheprey and St. Mihiel.

They are doing their part—the hardest part—and now again we have the privilege of doing ours, puny in comparison, by subscribing to the Fourth Liberty Loan.

Make every dollar you can possibly spare a fighting dollar—lend your money to the Government to wage humanity's greatest crusade.

The more tanks, artillery, airplanes and munitions we have, the less will be the toll of American blood—your money will help supply these. Knowing this, can you conscientiously hold back from subscribing for Liberty Bonds to your fullest capacity? It's your turn to "come through."

LOCAL MENTION.

—Saturday afternoon Oneonta chapter, D. A. R., held a picnic luncheon at Brookside, Laurens, the hostesses being Mrs. Walter S. Whipple and Mrs. Lillian Kirkland. The event was well attended and proved enjoyable.

—An illustrated lecture entitled, "Making the American Army," with text and slides furnished by the United States government, will be given on Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. hall. Music will be furnished by Company G band. Further particulars will appear in later issues.

—On the D. & H. train south last evening from Oneonta, there were three bodies of soldier boys, who had died at training camps. One was our own Charles S. Jennings, another was a Sidney boy, doubtless one of the two named in the Sidney newsletter in this issue, and the third was being sent to Harpursville.

—J. M. Silliman and family are now moving into F. A. Herrieff's house, on Walnut street, from Montreal. Mr. Silliman until Sept. 1 held a responsible position with the Canadian Pacific railroad, but since has been employed by the D. & H. company as division engineer of the Susquehanna division.

—The Children's Story hour at the Oneonta Public Library started for the season of 1918-19 on Saturday last with good attendance and much interest manifested. The session was in charge of Miss Marjorie Russell, who read two suitable poems, one by Stevenson and the other of a patriotic nature, and followed with two delightful fairy stories told in words suited to children of eight years and under. Next Saturday Miss Russell will conduct a similar session for children of from 9 to 11 years.

W. C. T. U. Issues Appeal

The National W. C. T. U. has issued an appeal for contributions for the purpose of providing stereomotorgraph picture machines for the use of the boys in camps at sea and over there. The organization has provided 23 of these and all contributions will be used for their purchase, the incidental expenses all being borne by the organization. While the duty of providing for this fund rests upon the Oneonta War Chest locally readers outside the city are invited to forward contributions to the national treasurer Mrs. Margaret Munns, Rest Cottage, Evanston, Ill.

Urgent Call for Nurses.

An urgent call has been received from the Red Cross for nurses' aids, home defense nurses or undergraduate nurses to assist in caring for influenza victims. If any of the above are available, please communicate with Miss Caddy at the Fox Memorial hospital that a unit may be organized.

ASKS INCREASED RATES

Trolley Company Will Ask for Four Cents a Mile for Tickets and Three and One-half Cents for Mileage—No Increase in Local Fares.

In another column the Southern New York Power and Railway corporation gives notice of an application to the Public Service commission for consent to increase its passenger rates and a frank statement of the conditions under which it is laboring at the present time, rendering an increase in income necessary if the road is to continue in operation. That the company has invested a large sum in the enterprise and has recently spent a large sum in betterments upon which it has received no adequate returns cannot be questioned. Probably no enterprises have been hit harder by the war conditions than street railway companies and this particular project, which while traversing a sparsely settled country in the main, has all the burdens of increased outlay for materials, labor, etc., with little opportunity to increase its patronage.

While not stated it is understood that the company will ask for an increase to four cents per mile for tickets on the main line with three and one-half the price for mileage books. The fares in the city will remain the same with five cents prevailing to all points within the city limits and to Junction at the Shaydside corner. The fares to points outside the city will be based upon a charge of five cents to the Junction and the new rates beyond.

Due notice will, of course, be given by the Public Service commission to the various communities affected by the proposed increase and an opportunity will be given for a hearing at which the opposition to increase can be represented and arguments made. It is unfortunate that the company finds itself in such financial condition that an increase in fares seems necessary. It would, however, be a misfortune to have the road reach a condition where its income would not meet the fixed operating charges. The Oneonta Chamber of Commerce will probably take early action and be represented at the hearing.

MONEY SERVES DUAL PURPOSE.

Pays Church Mortgage and Recipient Uses It for Liberty Loan.

Special anniversary and patriotic services were held in the Lutheran church yesterday. The day marked the fifteenth year of the church's organization and the tenth year of Rev. J. C. Trauger's pastorate in Oneonta. Rev. C. Zinsmeister, D. D., of New York city, the missionary superintendent, was present and preached an inspiring sermon. At the close of the service an appeal was made and the sum of $700.00 was raised to liquidate the church mortgage. At the evening praise service Pastor Trauger emphasized our duty to God and country in rendering service and the giving of our means, urging all to make a sacrifice if need be at this time in financing the Fourth Liberty Loan. It is a very rare occasion when people are privileged to contribute for a twofold object. The money raised will not only free the church from its indebtedness, but every dollar will be used in the purchase of Liberty bonds. This fact rallied the membership and made the raising of the required amount possible at this time.

Student Army Papers Forwarded.

Mobilization papers covering the induction of the following September 12 registrants into the Students' Army Training corps at various colleges and universities were forwarded to boards of transfer by the Oneonta Local Board Saturday:

Walter Z Campbell, Hamilton college; Jerome A. Walsh, J. Kenneth Yager, Brown university; Lloyd J. Lawson, Irving F. Whitney, Carnegie Institute of Technology; Alfred V. Carr, J. Merville Bell, Edward R. Seaman, Williams college; Harold W. Shafer, Columbia university; Harris W. Rogers, Clifford Bennett, Claude VanWie, Colgate university; Martin J. Bennett, Mondel E. Butterfield, Ellery Barney, Ralph H. Carrington, Galen B. Harrison, Cornell university; Raymond C. Hughson, Crosby J. Seybolt, Wesleyan university.

Missing Suit Recovered.

Pastor Johns, whose Sunday suit was thought to have been taken from his motor car on Friday, was found at police headquarters, where it had been taken by parties who saw it fall from his motor car at the corner of Main and Chestnut streets and, not recognizing the owner, took the suit case containing the garments to police headquarters. The story of the loss reached The Star office quite late Friday night, too late, in fact, for an investigation without disturbing people who had retired.

SALES NOW REACH $600,000

Chairman Butts Reports That Only $123,000 Remain to Be Taken to Secure City's Quota — D. & H. Departments Responding Handsomely.

Chairman L. P. Butts of the Liberty Loan committee reports that the sales of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds in the city reached on Saturday $600,000, leaving $123,600 to be sold for the city to reach its quota, which of course should be exceeded for the credit of the city. Oneonta has made a good showing for the first week, but as nearly all of the large subscriptions are in hand, it is evident that the number of small subscriptions must be increased during the next week if the city is to be certain of going over the top with a safe margin. The committees should get down to regular systematic work and no person with an income warranting a subscription should be missed the present week.

On Saturday the Citizens' National bank reported the day's sales at $13,600, and the Wilber National bank for the same day sales aggregating $13,250. The report of sales for the week is as follows:

Wilber National bank	$267,250
Citizens' National bank	150,000
Locomotive Dept. D. & H...	57,200
Transportion Dept., D. & H.	4,450
Car Dept., D. & H.	25,850
Sales not yet banked	45,250
Total	$600,000

The rally announced for Thursday evening of this week, at which it was expected Hon. J. Sloat Fassett would speak, has been abandoned, owing to the big demonstration arranged for Saturday evening next, it being considered unwise to have more than one mass meeting the present week. The Liberty Loan committee is to meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to perfect the plans for the rally on Saturday evening, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

No Evidence of Negligence on the Part of Motor Car Driver.

Coroner Getman at the Municipal building on Saturday morning took the evidence of five or six witnesses of the accident on Broad street Friday afternoon, in which William Hitchcock, a young lad, sustained critical injuries, which resulted in his death a short time afterward at the Fox Memorial hospital. The testimony of all the witnesses corroborated the statements of Fred Richards, the driver of the motor car, and indicated no negligence on his part and no probability that he could have avoided the accident. The coroner decided that it would be unnecessary to proceed further with the inquisition and he will write a verdict later, in which he will exonerate Richards from any responsibility for the accident.

FUNERAL OF CHARLES JENNINGS

Services Will Be Held Today at Afton Episcopal Church.

The body of the late Charles Jennings, who died on Wednesday last at Durham, N. H., at the army vocational school, arrived in Oneonta at 2:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon accompanied by Private George Soeman of the military service, and was taken on the 5:45 train to Afton, where the funeral service will be held at 1 p. m. today at the Episcopal church. The rector of the Afton church will officiate and interment will be in the Afton cemetery.

A firing squad from Company G of the State Guard will attend the funeral and it is understood that there will also be a large delegation of friends of the young man and of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Jennings, present from Oneonta at the service.

Save This List.

The Salvage Committee of the Red Cross has secured headquarters in the Oneonta Theatre block and the room will be open afternoons. Everyone is asked to save the articles in the following list and bring them to the salvage room no matter how small the quantity: Rubber, Lead, Copper, Brass, Hemp Rope, Hair Combings, and Switches, Typewriter Spools, Kid Gloves, Old Furs, Shoes, Old Clothes, Stocking Tops, False Teeth, Jewelry, Twine, Broken Electric Light Bulbs, Klipnockie Coffee Cans, Papers, Old Books and Magazines tied separately. Odd pieces of gingham to make collars and cuffs on children's dresses. Of special importance are fruit pits and shells of Brazil nuts, hickory nuts, walnuts and butternuts, as these are needed in making a certain form of carbon used in protecting the health and lives of our men from German poison gas.

ADVERTISING
A Necessity

WHEN goods are scarce and prices high, people are more appreciative than ever of the right kind of advertising.

They are seeking information. They want to know how to buy to the best advantage.

They want to know how to fill their needs and avoid waste. They welcome news of desirable substitutes for the things the country needs to conserve.

They read the newspapers carefully.

The merchant or manufacturer who does not advertise is not only missing the purely selfish opportunity, but he is failing in the service he owes to his customers.

WELL KNOWN ONEONTA LAWYER

Hon. J. Lee Tucker Dies Friday Night Following Shock Suffered Tuesday Morning—Had Been Assemblyman, Auditor of National Treasury and Counsel for Oneonta.

Hon. J. Lee Tucker, formerly supervisor and justice of the peace of the town of Laurens, later member of assembly for two years, an examiner in the pension office for some time, then Deputy Fifth auditor of the treasury at Washington for five years, and ever since a well-known lawyer of Oneonta and the resident attorney in this city for the Delaware & Hudson company, died at 8:50 o'clock Friday night at his home, 15 Ford avenue. He had been in failing health for the past year, but as usual he had spend the summer at his old home in West Laurens. He returned to this city August 29. His condition at that time was not such as to occasion anxiety, and no longer ago than Monday of last week he walked twice from his residence to the post office. At 12:30 Tuesday morning, however, he suffered a shock, and thereafter appeared never to regain consciousness.

The funeral services will be held at his late home at 1 p. m. today. Rev. Dr. James C. Russell of the First Presbyterian church will officiate and the body will be taken to West Laurens, where interment will be in the Bennett cemetery. The services at the grave will be conducted by the Laurens Masonic lodge, of which from early life Mr. Tucker had been a member.

J. Lee Tucker was born at West Laurens, June 13, 1840, and was a son of Ezra and Delia (Hayward) Tucker, both of them members of the older families of his township. He was educated in the public schools of that place and later studied law and was admitted to the bar. He was for several years a justice of the peace of his township and in 1871 and 1872 was a member of assembly from the second Otsego district. In 1880 he was supervisor of the national census for the Fifth district of the state of New York. Later he was for a short time pension examiner at Washington, but resigned on account of ill health in 1883. In the closing days of the first Cleveland administration Mr. Tucker was appointed and confirmed as Deputy Fifth Auditor of the treasury—an exceptional honor coming from a Democratic president to one of opposite political faith, and he continued in this office until the expiration of President Harrison's term, when he returned to Oneonta, which was thereafter continuously his home. He was for some time senior member of the firm of Tucker & Mayham, and later of Tucker & Bockes, but for the past few years had practiced his profession alone. He was also counsel for several years for the village of Oneonta.

Mr. Tucker, who was a birthright Quaker, was a most respected man, not alone by members of his profession, but by his townsfolks generally. Genial to a high degree, and uniformly courteous and obliging there were few who made more friends or who kept them more closely to the last hours of life. His demise will be deeply regretted.

The nearest surviving relative of Mr. Tucker is a niece, Mrs. May Washburn of West Laurens. He leaves also numerous cousins, among them Miss Florence E. Hayward, who had been his housekeeper for many years and Edson A. Hayward and Mrs. Jennie Martindale, of Oneonta; Mrs. James Sheldon, Mrs. Lewis Johnson and Mrs. Norman Ellis of West Laurens; Galen Lull of Morris, Chauncey Tucker of Unadilla and Mrs. Sadie Hayward of Albany.

Those who have discovered the flavor and quality of Otsego coffee, advise their friends to buy it. Just convince yourself once—the taste tells.

DEATHS.

Clarence J. B. Baldwin.

Clarence J. Bennett Baldwin, son of Edward and Ethel Baldwin of 411 Main street, died at the family home Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, after a long illness. On July 3 last, he underwent at the Fox Memorial hospital an operation for the removal of adenoids and tonsils. Later meningitis developed and more recently an abscess formed, which caused his death. The funeral services will be held on Tuesday and will be private. Rev. J. C. Johnson will officiate and interment will be at Schenevus.

The lad was born in Davenport 10 years ago last November and had resided here only about six months. He has been a patient sufferer and was a bright likeable lad, being in the sixth grade at school. He was fond of music and amused himself during his illness by singing songs he had learned. He was a member of the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal church. He is survived by his parents, one brother, Maurice, and one sister, Miss Helen, both residing at home.

Mrs. Lizzie Hackett Gonser.

Mrs. Lizzie Hackett Gonser, wife of John Christian Gonser, and daughter of the late John and Angeline (Couse) Hackett, died at the family home at the Hackett homestead, South Side, last evening, at 9:30 o'clock, of pneumonia, aged 56 years. The deceased was a native and life-long resident of Oneonta. The funeral announcement with further reference to her life will be made in a later issue.

Funeral Announcement.

The funeral of the late William Hitchcock, the lad fatally injured on Broad street Friday afternoon, when he was run over by a motor car, will be held from the home of the grandparents at 45 Broad street on Tuesday, at 2 p. m. Rev. Dr. J. C. Russel will officiate and interment will be made in the Plains cemetery.

YOUR MOTHER

fought a battle with death to give you life

Suppose she asked you to lend her a few dollars; and you knew that the money would be used entirely for your good, and would surely be repaid!

Would not your love and your faith move you to make this loan to your Mother?

Here, now, YOUR MOTHER-COUNTRY CALLS! She asks no gift from you—as she asks the possible gift of life from the boys "over there."

She asks only a money loan, to be used wholly for your good—to protect you and to defend your home. This money she will repay, dollar for dollar, with interest.

If you love your land, if you are a red-blooded American, you will heed your Mother Country's call.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young — to do this you must watch your liver and bowels — there's no need of having a sallow complexion — dark rings under your eyes — pimples — a bilious look in your face — dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

INSPIRATION FOR VALOR OF POILU COMES IN PART FROM HIS LEADERS

Secret of the Dashing Heroism That Has Made the French Soldier an Everlasting Figure and the Very Name Synonymous of Bravery—Many Generals Cited for Heroic Deeds in Battle.

Heroism which has made the French Poilu an everlasting figure and the very name synonymous of bravery cannot be entirely credited to the gallant Poilu, writes Wilbur Forest in New York Tribune.

What has inspired the valor of soldiers who have stirred the world with their deeds throughout the European war and who have, during the last few months, fought against numerical superiority with a morale of Crusaders?

The best answer to this question is the Poilu's leaders. And no better illustration of the leadership of French Poilus during this war can be given today than by quoting brief, terse citations awarded to French generals for most conspicuous gallantry—a list of citations available only now—briefest keynotes on which volumes could have been and probably will be written later—tabloid stories, many never before known, which, despite their official wording, tell the full story of the French Poilu.

It has been the inspiration of his officers from generals down that has keyed the Poilu to set the example for American doughboys, who have begun liberally to follow it on French battlefields. The bravery of both Poilus and doughboys fighting side by side to stem the German march on Paris may undoubtedly be traced back to the supreme example set by French generals for their officers and men.

Many Generals Fall.

The death of a general on the battlefield is not emphasized when it occurs for obvious reasons. Many French generals have fallen. That which follows will show that the example they gave in death has been the force allowing French arms to pit pure valor against numbers until the weight of America could be thrown into the balance.

General Bridoux, commander of a cavalry corps, wounded while leading a reconnaissance, whispered to those about him before he died:

"I die with great joy for my country; say to the cavalry corps that the sacrifice of my life must serve them an example."

The simple citation adds:

"He has given proof of immovable energy in the command of his corps."

Here is the story of General Diou, commander of an infantry brigade: "Of courage entirely proved, he was mortally wounded in struggling against a numerically superior enemy with his brigade, to whom he gave the best example of bravery, struck in their midst with a rifle in his hand."

The following tribute is paid to Gen. Georges E. J. Riberpray, a division commander:

"Officer generally of the highest moral value and beautiful character, never having known other cares than those of the wellbeing of the army and the accomplishment of his military duties; adored by his officers and men, he preached contempt of danger to them, in each day giving greatest examples of courage. He fell gloriously September 11, 1917, present among his regiments of the first line during the height of combat under artillery and machine gun fire."

Risks Life Hundred Times.

Brigadier General Caudrelier, Colonial infantry:

"Fell gloriously in examining enemy works from the most advanced trench of his brigade after having during the campaign exposed his life a hundred times with the utmost contempt for danger; wounded previously, he had never interrupted his service a single day."

Brig. Gen. Grand d'Esnon was killed leading one of his battalions in action:

"Having received the order to hold in Vigneul les Hattonchatel, he executed this order until the moment he was killed, struck through the heart by a bullet, at the head of a battalion."

The following, longest of all generals' citations, but no more lengthy than thousands of Poilus have received during the war, is that of General Battaille:

"Learning that our positions were violently bombarded by enemy artillery of heavy caliber, he considered it his most sacred duty to investigate the situation and encourage the defenders by his presence if necessary. It was at the moment he was giving instruction to the chasseurs of the Twenty-eighth and Thirtieth battalions with sangfroid and contempt for danger, which to him were habitual, that he was mortally struck by fragments of an enemy shell. He thus gave, to his last hour, the example of bravery and greatest of military qualities."

Without Fear or Reproach.

Brig. Gen. Lucien Rousseau is cited as follows:

"An officer to whom bravery and admirable calm were commonplace, best shown during combats on the Sambre, during the retreat and on the Aisne. Killed at his post of command during operations which permitted a regiment of his brigade to recapture Berry-au-Bac."

General Barbot, commander of a division, fell leading his troops. He is cited as follows:

"Soldier without fear and without reproach; an experienced chief who took most active and brilliant part in all combats for a period of seven months around Reims, found a glorious death at the head of a division."

General Stirn, named to command the same division at the head of which General Barbot fell, was in turn killed the day after he had taken command. He is cited:

"Officer of great merit and of remarkable intelligence and vigor; killed at his post of command the day after he had been named leader of the —— division."

Gen. Louis Delarue, divisional commander, who had served long enough to be passed in the reserve, is cited:

"Commanded with greatest vigor a brigade, then a division in the first line, notably in the battles of the Ourcq, the Aisne and Champagne; knew how to instill in his men the patriotic ardor which flamed within him; fell gloriously after he had gone to the trenches of the first line to assure the possession of conquered terrain and to prepare further operations."

Under Violent Fire.

Gen. Charles Sibille's death is told as follows:

"Contributed to the success of the Battle of Rozelieures in usefully directing operations of his brigade and giving all the example of courage and sangfroid; killed before Seicheprey at the moment he was moving forward, with his staff, under violent fire, to examine the position of St. Baussant, which he had received orders to attack."

Gen. J. B. Albert Moussy, commander of an infantry brigade, is cited:

"Gave the best example in going forward bravely at the critical moment of an action, with an officer and his staff, in front of the artillery and infantry lines, gathering his men to the attack, throwing the enemy back and regaining, at the head of his forces, some trenches momentarily lost."

General des Vallieres, commander of a division recently engaged, is cited:

"Charged in August, 1917, with his division to execute a difficult attack, he executed it well and conquered his objectives. In the course of recent fighting, attacked by very superior forces and surrounded on one of his flanks, he held well and repulsed all attacks, going to the scene in full battle, co-ordinating the action of troops engaged and exalting the courage of all and their confidence by his presence and his personal action."

Much space might be filled with similar citations of not only generals, but those of the lesser Poilu leaders. But the foregoing serve to amply illustrate why the word "Poilu" stands also for bravery.

CHAIN GUNNERS IN TREE

Huns Had to Be Tied Up When Americans Attacked Them in Belleau Wood.

Washington. — Edward Hunn, a wounded American soldier back from France and convalescing at Walter Reed hospital here, declared that he had seen German machine gunners chained to trees in the battle of Belleau wood, where American marines so distinguished themselves.

"My company was one of the first to advance at Belleau wood," he said. "We had got up to the hill through a thick underbrush and German machine gunners above us sent many of our fellows 'west.' We got near the Germans and I saw some of them in trees firing their machine guns at us.

"It was about this time that I was wounded. My company was ordered to fall back and wait until morning.

"The next morning our fellows took that section of Belleau wood. Twenty-six machine guns were taken, and the fellows told me that the men I saw in the trees had to be unchained before their bodies could be buried."

"A CORKING GOOD SHOW."

The Very Idea Which Comes to the Oneonta Theatre Wednesday.

The problem of vicarious parentage as opposed to eugenics is the theme of an interesting little three act comedy which opened at the Armory theatre last evening and will run for two performances today. William LaBaron wrote it and called it "The Very Idea." It deserved a bigger and more appreciative audience than the one which greeted its premier in this city last night. Chances are when the news gets around, the seats for today's performances will be at a premium.

Too many details of the plot and the action would spoil the show for those who contemplate seeing it today. The story is written around a couple of lightweights, a man and a woman, married, of course, who wanted a baby and were willing to pay $15,000 for a good one. Enter a eugenically inclined brother who arranges for a made-to-order baby, guaranteed a thoroughbred. An Irish chauffeur and an equally Irish maid are enlisted as parents for the prospective child. Everything is arranged satisfactorily—but you'll have to see the show to learn the denoument.

"The Very Idea" is a comedy that does not have to depend upon lavish scenery or handpainted chorus flappers to put it over. A dangerous theme is handled with utmost finesse by the performers, every one of whom is an artist.

The piece opens dully and with a talky interval that is rather discouraging. But the audience is soon yanked up out of its lethargy when the dangerous subject of child propagation is introduced. From that moment the piece rollicks along until the finish with hardly a break in the comic action.

The small cast is rather a point in favor of "The Very Idea." It is so much easier to follow the plot with eight people than when the author is compelled to furnish lines and situations for a big cast. There are no difficult complications and the plot rides smoothly on the bosom of a sea of mirth to a most satisfactory finish.

It would have been a very easy matter to make "The Very Idea" an improper play. The author seemed to realize this and time and again he leads the audience to the very brink of what a Frenchman would call "a situation"—then shoos them off with a laugh. Just when you think the show is going to be naughty and you are wondering how you can manage to make your escape without attracting too much attention, somebody saves the situation with a funny line, and there you are.

Four men and four women, and a little girl, are enough cast to make "The Very Idea" a corking good show.—[Binghamton Republican.

Influenza Closes Fair.

S. G. Camp received a message late Saturday that the health authorities had order the fair at Danbury, Conn., to which two of his horses had been shipped, called off on account of the prevalence of the Spanish influenza. Mr. Camp was able to stop his horses at Springfield, Mass., and they will be shipped back to Oneonta, as it is anticipated that all the fairs over east, at several of which the horses were entered, will be called off for the same reason. Mr. Camp won one second and a fourth money at the Troy races last week.

Dry Jubilee Service.

Sunday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church a "dry" jubilee service was held with addresses by Mrs. Lulu Walker and Rev. Dr. J. A Hensey, district superintendent. The speakers emphasized the benefits that will accrue to mothers and children and the men who drink themselves by the change and the relief that will come to all citizens who prize the peace and happiness of their neighbors. An interesting feature of the service was a captivating solo rendered by Miss Hancon of the High school faculty.

ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE.

Alonzo Walling Charged With Rape by Girl of Only 12 Years.

Late Friday night Officer Horton placed Alonzo Walling of Stapleton avenue under arrest on the charge of rape, preferred by the daughter of a neighbor. The alleged circumstances seem almost incredible. Walling is said to be 82 years of age. According to the statements of the girl she was requested, after she returned from school that afternoon, to await the return of her mother, who was away, at the home of Walling. The girl declares that the assault was committed by force and it is said that the the physician called corroborates, to an extent, her testimony.

The examination was adjourned and bail in the sum of $2,000 was provided. Mr. Walling bears a good reputation and there are intimations by his friends that the charges are unfounded and are based upon an attempt at extortion. The case will it is believed, be thoroughly investigated.

Funeral of Mrs. Scott.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Eliza Rowland Scott were held at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. A. Kimball, 47 Valleyview street in this city. There was a large attendance of relatives, neighbors and friends; and numerous floral tributes testified to the general sympathy and regard. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Russell of the First Presbyterian church, who after the reading of brief appropriate passages of scripture, delivered a most comforting address.

Interment was in the cemetery at Kortright Center, members of the family acting as bearers and Rev. S. J. Rowland, of Clinton, N. J., a brother of the deceased, reading the service at the grave. Among the relatives and friends present were the brother above named, Dr. and Mrs. James Mitchell, Dr. and Mrs. John Archibald and Mrs. Ella Mott of Cohoes, brothers-in-law and sisters of the deceased. There were also many present from Kortright, Treadwell, Meridale, Milford, Schenevus, West Davenport, East Meredith and Otego.

Committed to the County Jail.

Milton Goldstein, who gives his residence as New York, was before City Judge Shove on Saturday charged with petit larceny, it being alleged that he stole a pocketbook belonging to a roomer at the Star Lunch room, Lower Chestnut street. Goldstein, who came to the city with one of the fair attractions as an attache of the comedy circus, has been sleeping in outbuildings since the fair closed, denied stealing the pocketbook, declaring that he found it, but made no effort to find the owner. He accordingly plead guilty and was sentenced to the county jail for 30 days.

OPPORTUNITY FOR HUNTERS

Frank E. Wolcott, Writing to Parents from France, Tells of Boche Air Raid and Other Experiences.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wolcott are in receipt of a letter from their son, Private Frank E. Wolcott, dated in France Sept. 7, which will be read with interest, not only by friends of the family but the public generally. The letter, with one or two omissions of purely personal references, is as follows:

Somewhere in France,
Sept. 7, 1918.

Dear Mother and Father:

Well, I have made another move. This time to a city not far from the lines, and we have it fine here. This is my fifth stop in France, so you see that I am seeing quite a bit of the country.

We hiked here from our last camp, and arrived at about 11 o'clock at night. We were just in time to witness an air raid, and it was great. We were just outside the place when we heard the drone of a Boche plane, and our lieutenant took us out under the trees to watch the fun. "How did we know that it was a German plane" you asked. Dead easy. The German planes have a hum all their own, and after you have heard one once you can easily distinguish it again. The men at the anti-aircraft guns heard it at about the same time that we did and then the fun commenced. The rays from the powerful searchlights shot into the air and the guns opened fire. The guns and lights are located on a hill overlooking the city, and we could plainly see the flash of the guns and hear the report and scream of the shells as they sped on their way after the Boche. From the noise and the bursting shells one would think that a big battle was in full progress. It made a splendid sight and I would not have missed it for a good deal. It made me think of the Italians in America celebrating Columbus day. The welcome soon became too warm for Herr Boche and he did an about face and headed for his native land on the double quick. Air raids are an ordinary occurrence here, but there is very little danger, for the men at the anti-aircraft guns are on to their jobs too well. This is my second raid and I find them quite exciting and practically safe. We slept that first night on the station platform and it was not very warm sleeping, but we were moved into good billets the next day.

I had a pass from six to nine last evening and went into the city to see the sights. The place is very interesting and I had an enjoyable time. There is a very beautiful and historic Cathedral there, and I had a great time looking it over. It is a lovely piece of architecture and a credit to the French builders. I bought some post cards of the place and will bring them back with me.

I am stationed at an evacuation hospital and am quartered in a stable which is considerably more comfortable than the Pup tents. I help handle the wounded here and hear a lot about the front. We had a German yesterday who had been shot through the stomach.

There is nothing that you can send me just now, mother, for Uncle Sam looks after me pretty well. I may need something this winter, for they tell me that the winters here are pretty severe. If there should be I will let you know. I guess this is about all for this time Do not worry about me for I am feeling fine and am in practically no danger.

Oh, say dad! Now that the hunting season is almost here, you and Uncle Frank clean up your guns and come over. I can guarantee you both some very fine bird shooting. We have a low-down specie of the ruffed grouse over here on which there is no closed season. They fly high and are a little hard to hit, but I think that two such good shots as you and Uncle Frank would have no trouble in making a good bag of game. They have a feeding ground near here and they get fed up a plenty every time they come over. These bird are rather stupid and will return to the same feeding ground after being shot up repeatedly. They are usually hunted over here with rifles with a large bore, but I think that you might have fair luck with a ten guage loaded with buck shot. To advance a little more information—I will tell you that this low-down, stupid, block-headed disgrace to the grouse family, is called a Boche or a Hun over here.

I guess this is enough. Write often and keep well.

With love
Frank.

Called to Plymouth, Pa.

Rev. B. M. Johns, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, leaves this morning for Plymouth, Pa., where he has been called to officiate at the funeral of Walter Lewis, a former parishioner, whom he married two years ago and who recently died at a training camp while in the service. Mr. Johns hopes to return on Wednesday.

31 YEARS TOWN CLERK

Charles Wagar of Portlandville Dies After Long Illness

Probably there were few men in the town of Milford better known or with a wider circle of friends than Charles Wagar of Portlandville, who died at 9 p. m. on Saturday after long illness. He had suffered for several years from Bright's disease, but the immediate cause of death was probably a shock about two weeks before. The funeral services will be held from the Methodist Episcopal church at Portlandville at 2 p. m. on Tuesday. Rev. S E Hunt will officiate and interment will be in Pine Grove cemetery.

Mr. Wagar was born 75 years ago in the town of Milford, which was all his life his home. In earlier years he was a wagon maker, and for 31 years was the town clerk of the town of Milford, with offices at Portlandville. He was an excellent musician and for a long time was director of the Milford band. A man of pleasing personality, of unusual courtesy and of most obliging disposition, he made many friends who will learn with the deepest regret of his death. He had for many years been a member of the Methodist church and for a long time was a member of the choir.

Mr. Wagar, who was a son of the late John and Lura (Weldon) Wagar, is survived by his wife and by one, daughter, Mrs. Frank Allen of 44 Dietz street, this city, also by three grandchildren, Mrs. Claude Tripp, Ray W. Hadsell and Hazel E. Allen, all of Oneonta. A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gertrude Mumfor. Wagar, wife of the late C. O. Wagar of this city who died in December last, also survives him.

Walter Coburn Seriously Ill.

Word was received here late Saturday night by Mrs. Charles Hotchkiss of the serious illness of her son, Walter Coburn, who is now stationed at Camp Merritt, N. J. Relatives communicated on Sunday with the hospital at Camp Merritt and were advised to come at once as his condition was unchanged from the preceding day. His mother and Miss Breta Trinkino left on the 4:10 train Sunday afternoon for Camp Merritt.

"Her Man"

A splendid six-part number, based on a story of the Kentucky mountains by Charles Neville Buck with Elaine Hammerstein and W. Lawson Butt in the leading roles. This differs from the ordinary feud story in that it penetrates deeper into the psychology of the mountaineers, and the dramatic thrill in the final reel is one of the best accomplished in pictures for a long time.

"Whatever Lessens Woman's Work Benefits the Race"

Timely Statement in Government Bulletin Voices a Vital Truth

The Home Furnishing Co.

24,000,000 women work in America's kitchens, preparing the nation's meals. This is our biggest industry and the one that is operated with the smallest amount of labor-saving equipment.

Now, with 7,000,000 women employed in war activities and the shortage of domestic help growing more acute daily, the need for home conveniences is more important than ever. The kitchen cabinet heads the list of kitchen conveniences because it saves steps and time and prevents waste every day in the year, in preparing meals and clearing up after meals. It is the housekeeper's work-bench and tool-chest combined, or it can be compared with a business man's desk and filing case.

Says the Bulletin of the U. S. Department of Agriculture:

"A kitchen cabinet is just as important to the woman as the bench to the workman or the laboratory desk to the chemist. With it the housekeeper can sit down comfortably with her whole kitchen workshop within easy reach. It saves walking to and fro to gather up this thing and that to prepare the food."

Hoosier Saves Time and Energy

The Hoosier is universally recognized as the leading kitchen cabinet. Over a million delighted owners use it daily to save time, steps and food. A large number of these women live in Oneonta, some are people you know.

Eight of the world's foremost domestic science experts helped to make every part of the Hoosier a practical, serviceable kitchen helper. And this cabinet is built in the world's largest kitchen cabinet factory — big production makes low cost possible.

Within the Reach of Everyone

The latest and most complete Hoosier sells at very little more than before the war. Our popular purchase plan puts this cabinet in reach of everyone. Pay only a small deposit when you select your Hoosier—pay the balance in convenient amounts weekly. Your money all back if you are not delighted.

Come and select your Hoosier now before the shortage of freight cars makes it impossible for us to supply you.
